I'm literally just a 13 year-old kid. His name's Jack and it's completely a coincidence that the maker of this video is called Jack. We just love Yu-Gi-Oh that much, and when the Dark Side of Destiny came out, he was so taken by it, that he had to make a video telling the story. So we decided to make a series of videos tell the Yu-Gi-Oh story. And this is just the first of five episodes. So if you get our story, you can expect to see episode five some time around the 16th of May 2018. Yu-Gi-Oh - The Dark Side of Destiny - Part 17: The Disasters Presents The Disasters, part 17 of the Yu-Gi-Oh "The DarkSide of Destiny" Story. I'm literally just a 13 year-old kid. For Best YuGiOh format: wtf is this haha. No that's not mad at my battle skills. I got to train harder! :D:D:D:D. but no no no. i train harder. :D. i haven't played in a long time. :]. everyone knows that. :. :. :. :D. Best YuGiOh Deck Best YuGiOh Deck Deck-Squad [Quidditch] The Yu-Gi-Oh Core Set This is just a theory, but I think there are two separate options. First, it could be that Jaden's hand is being tampered with/tricked, and not with a deliberate plot. Another explanation would be that the scriptwriters of the show made a terrible mistake and used "Evil Incarnate" in a place they should not have. For both options, it is probably the same person who did it (i.e. the person responsible for Jaden's v-tape). This person doesn't know that Jaden can feel emotions and, thus, is unaware that they're messing with Jaden's emotions. Now, I'm not saying that the latter option is more likely. I just think it's worth considering. But then again, is it fair to blame this on the writers when it's possible (and more likely?) that this could be a regular recurring mistake? Then again, I've seen a lot of wierd crap happening in YuGiOh anime... (Sending a message... & WAITING.) Best YuGiOh Deck I'd have to agree with 2ndChoice's theory. I saw it already when they made that scene. It looked like one of the main writers screwed up and told Jaden to use the Yami and the hand from the fire video. I don't think they should be blamed for this. I also think that perhaps someone did tell him to use those from the video. But that is the most likely explanation, it was on purpose.
